SYDNEY HERITAGE FLEET

MUSEUM OF
SYDNEY HARBOUR

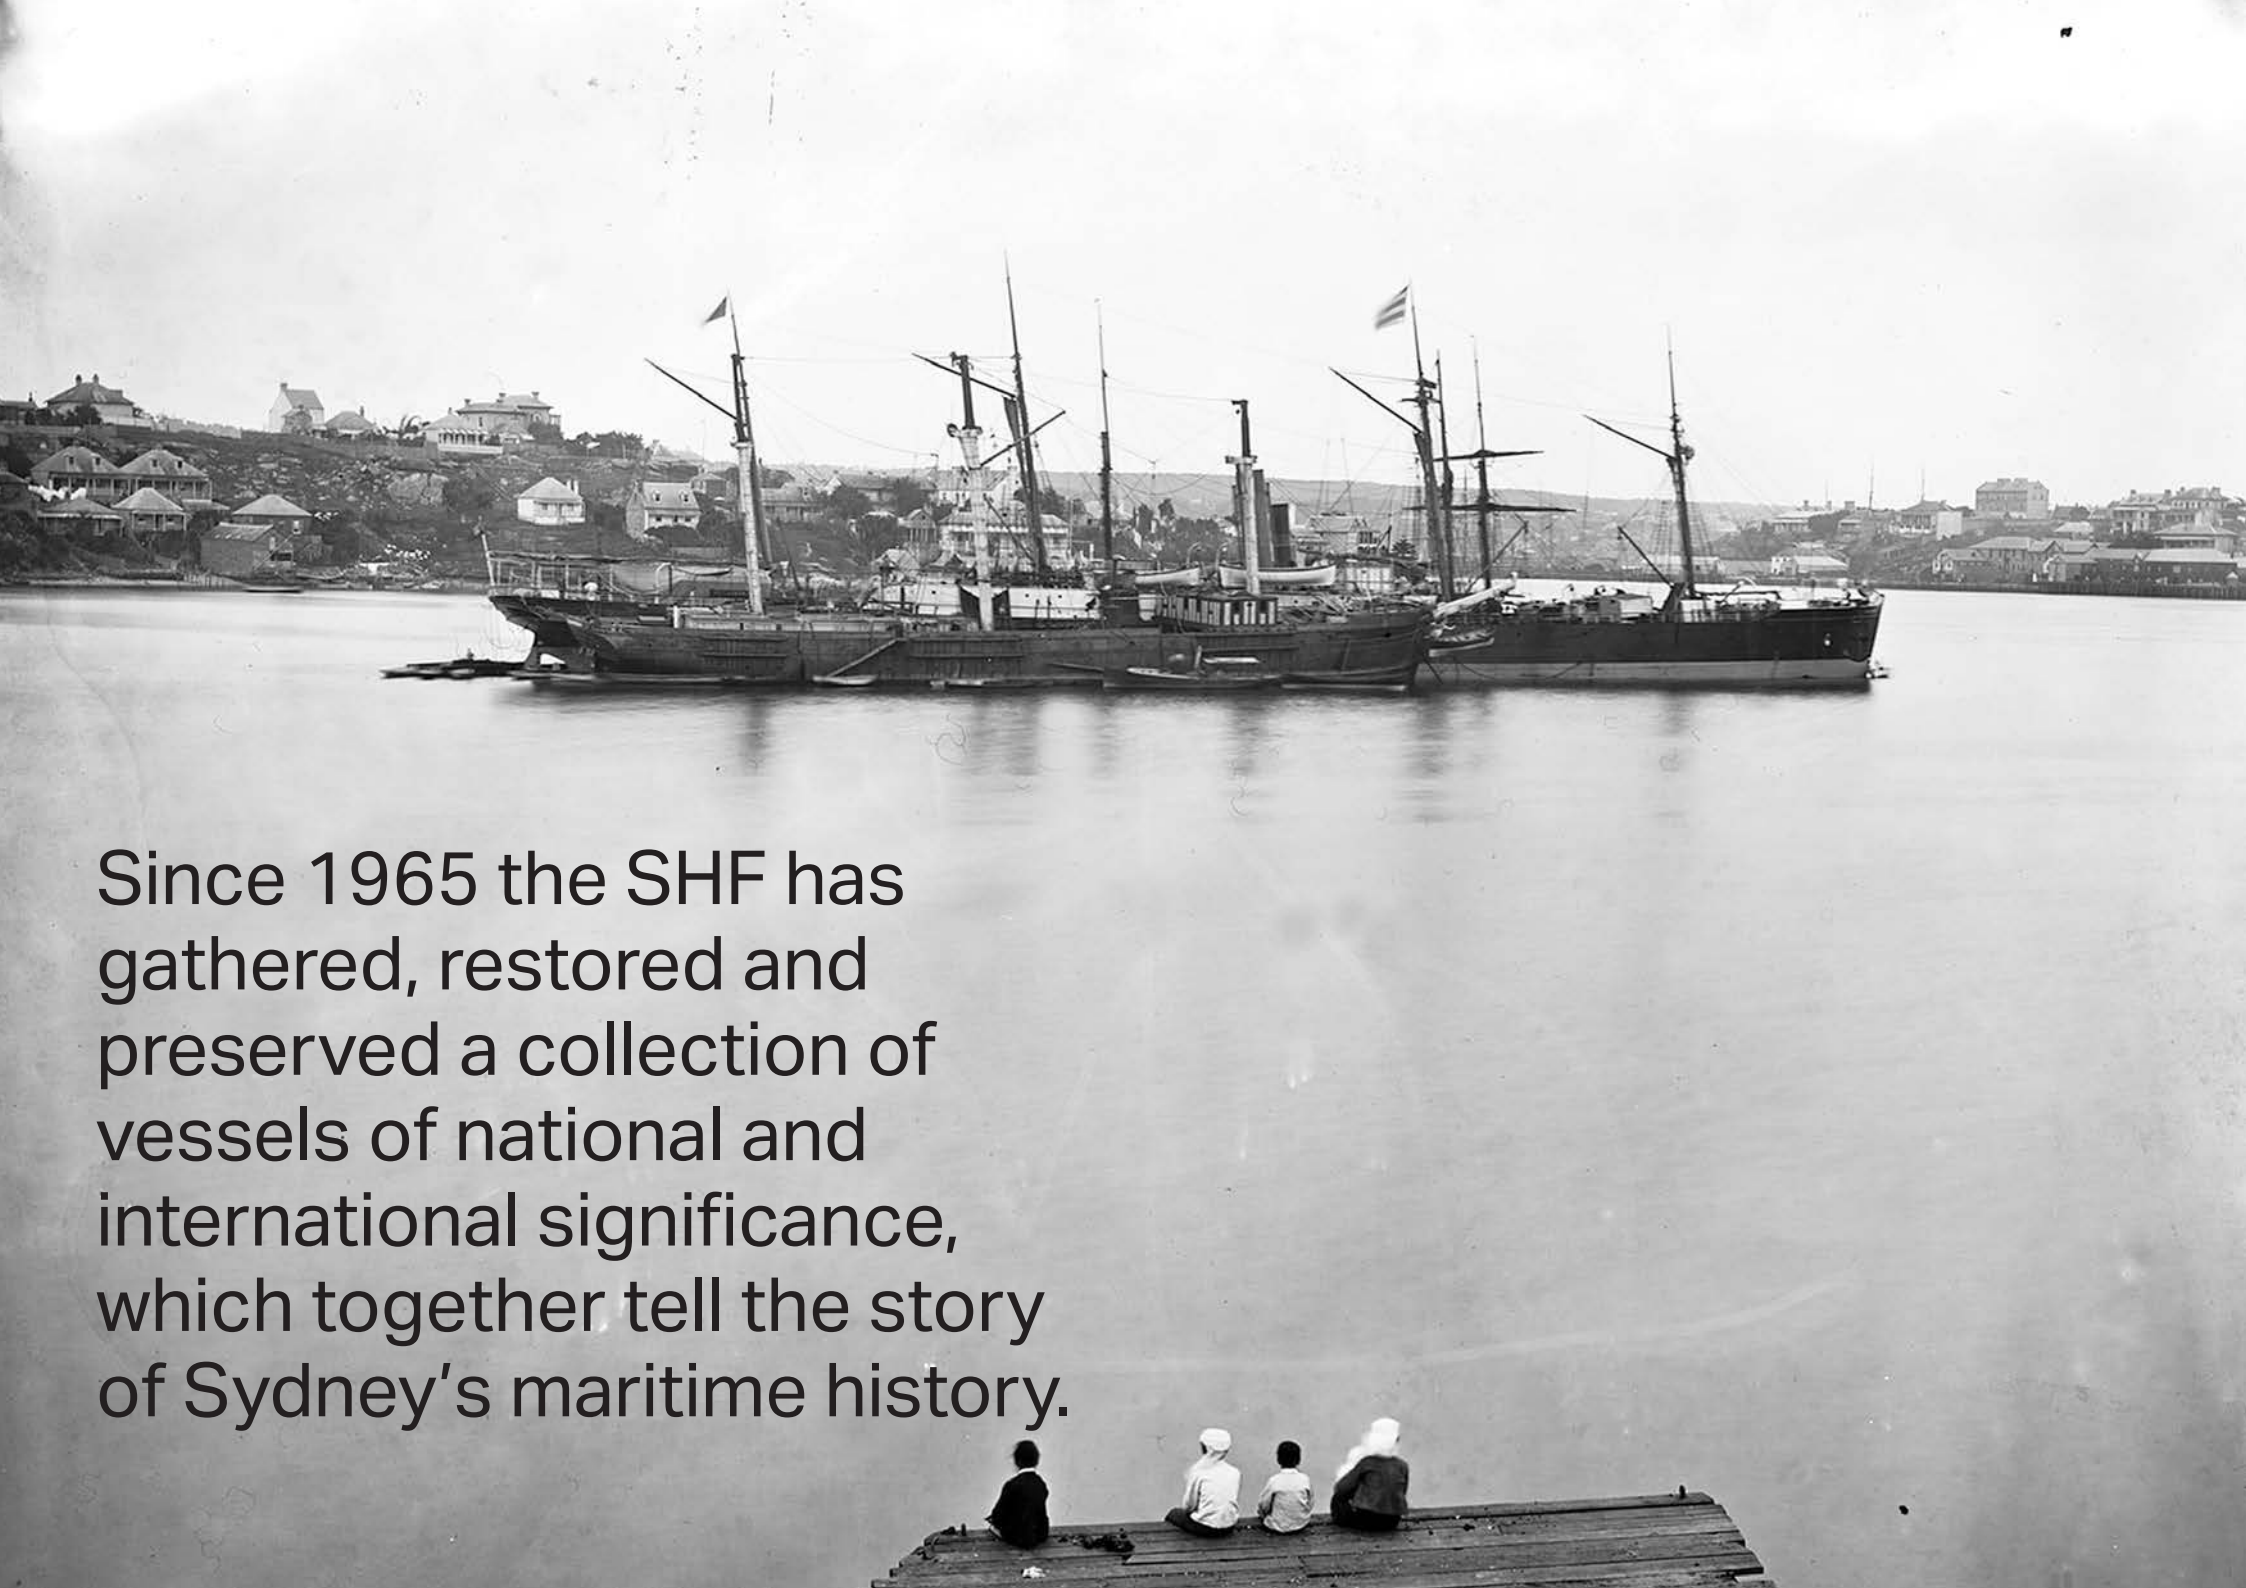

AT BERRYS BAY

Sydney Harbour - the heart of our city

Since 1965 the SHF has gathered, restored and preserved a collection of vessels of national and international significance, which together tell the story of Sydney's maritime history.

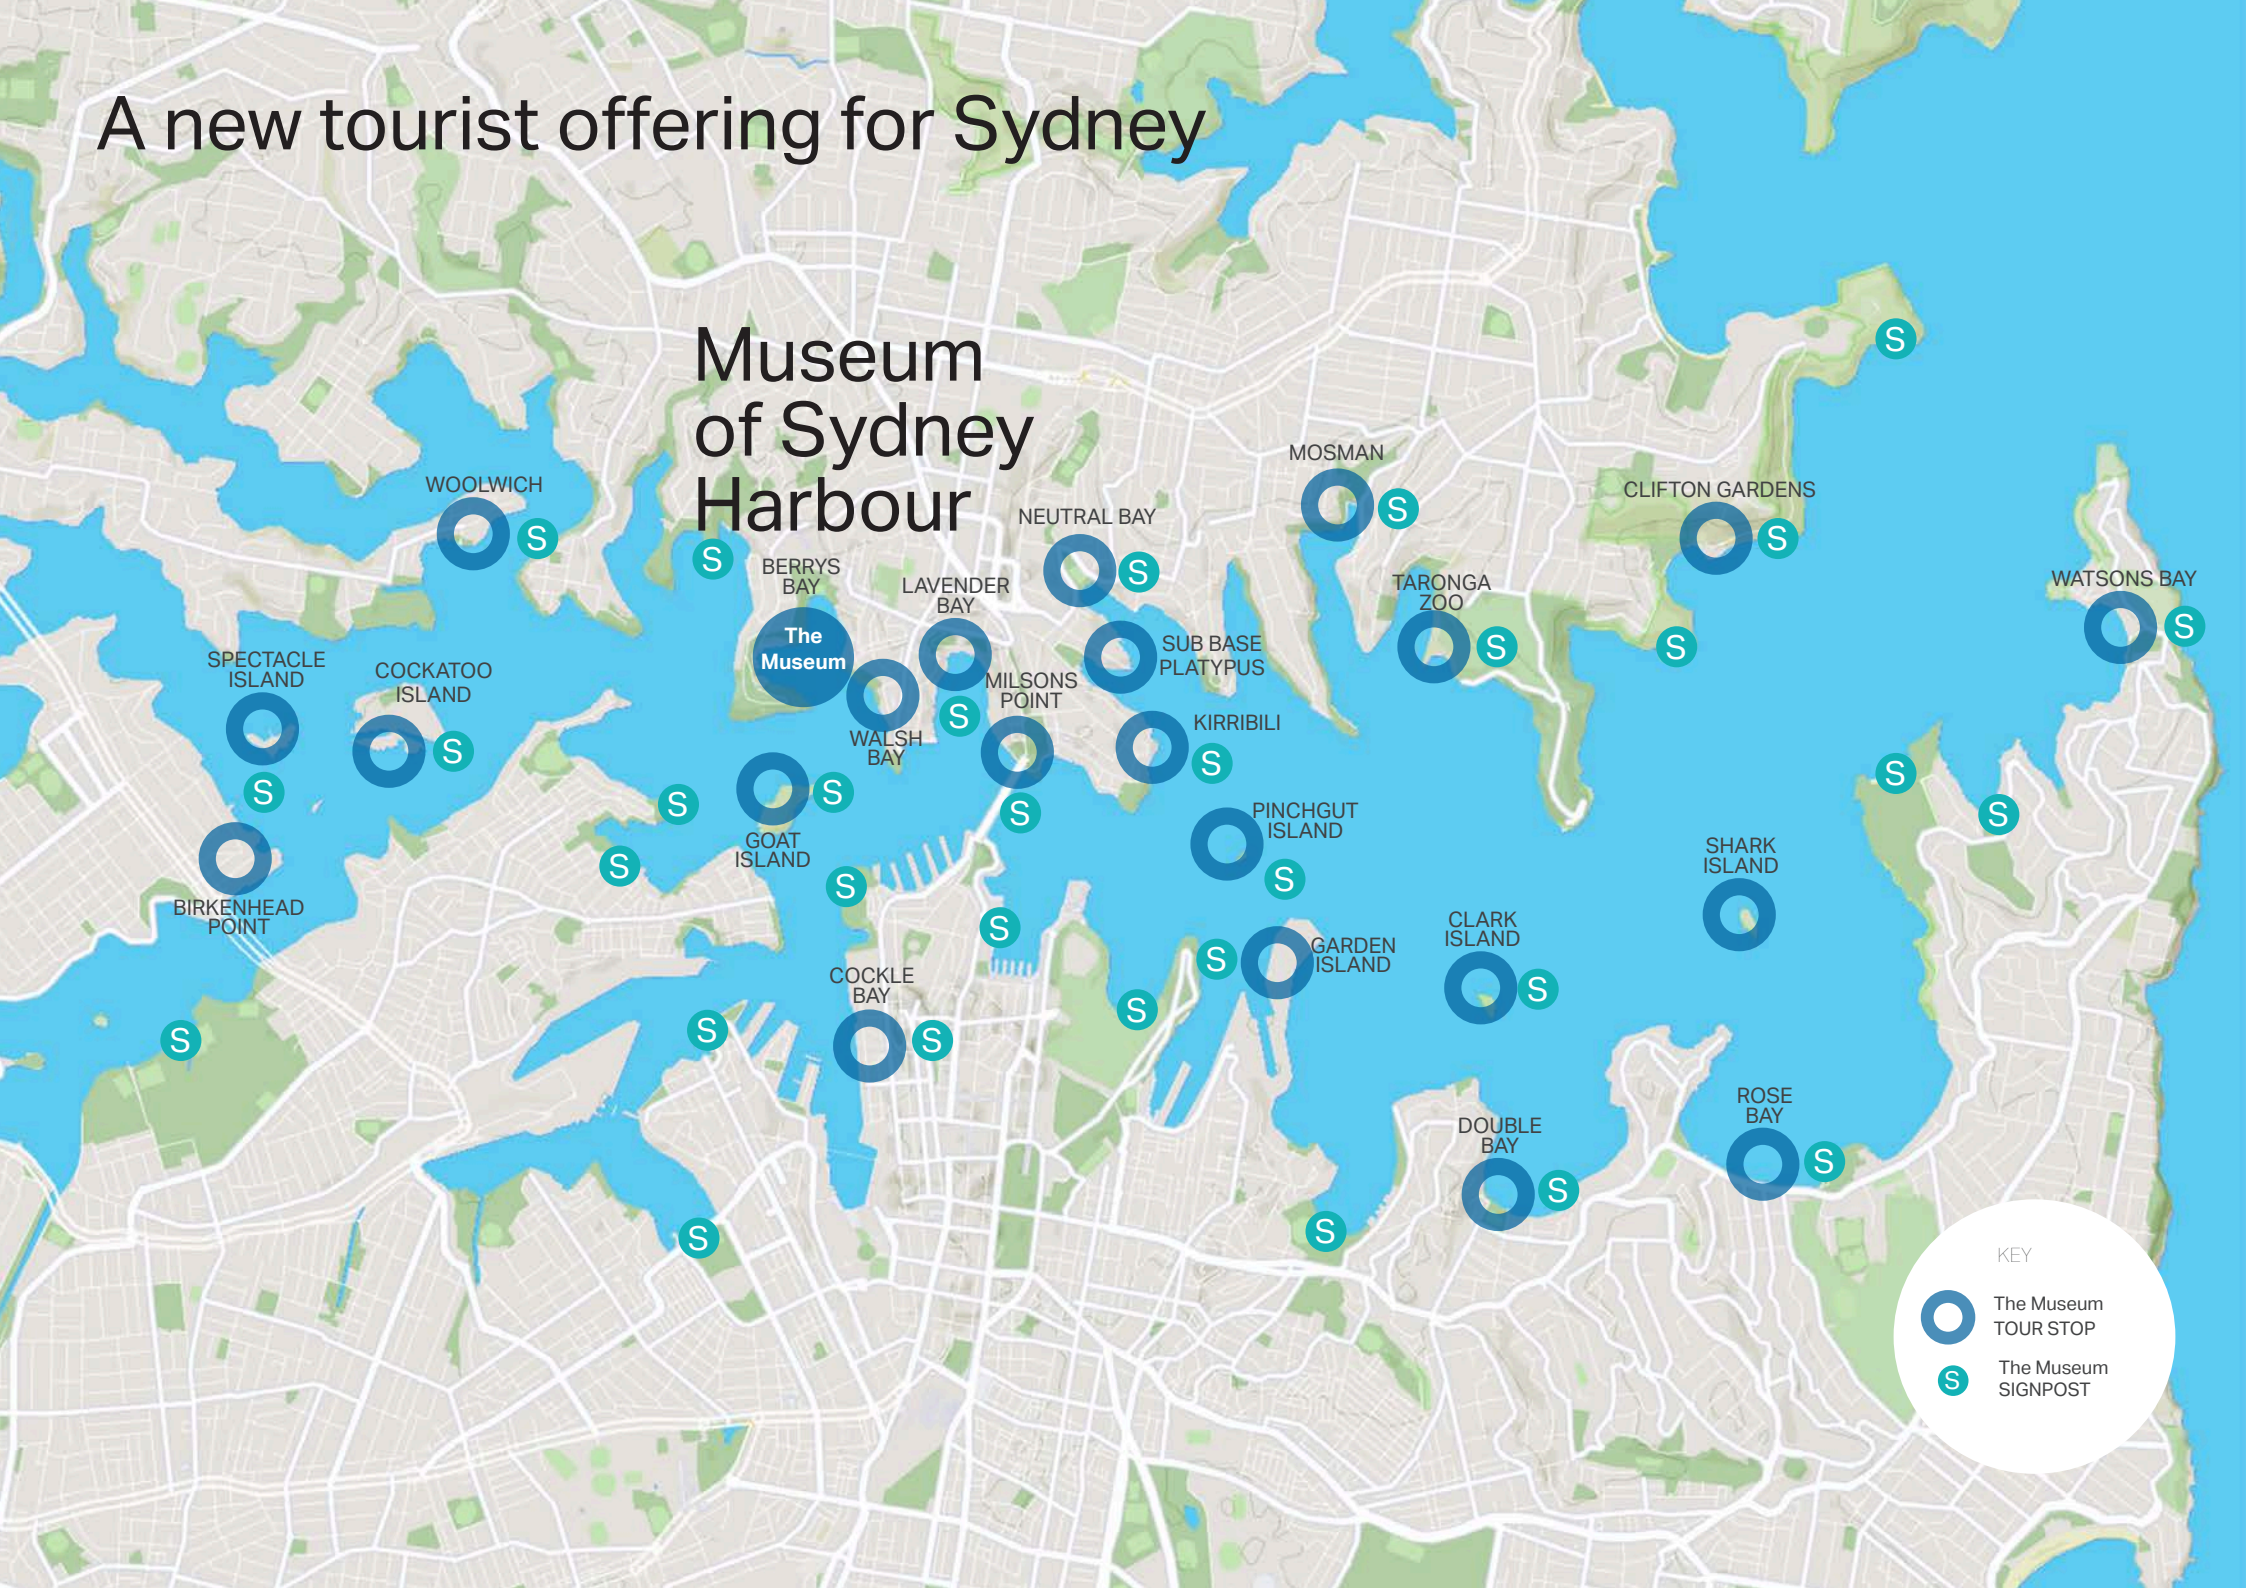

The SHF needs a permanent home for its Collection

The Museum of Sydney Harbour is an ideal project for the revitalisation of Sydney Harbour and tourism recovery.

Berrys Bay was once an integral part of maritime industrial activities

SHF's flagship Lady Hopetoun was built in Berrys Bay in 1902

A unique opportunity to combine heritage preservation with cultural tourism and provide Harbourside community access, facilities and activities

- The Museum of Sydney Harbour is a contemporary museum, amounting to more than its physical built form at Berrys Bay.
- Berrys Bay and its history is the start of the visitor's experience; the Museum HQ building is a 'portal' through which the visitor can experience the Harbour beyond its history and stories.

- It is the beginning and end point for the unique harbour adventures the Museum offers; it brings the experiences together and acts as a coherent and engaging cultural entrée to the fundamental theme of the museum: the significance of Sydney Harbour.
- The Museum HQ also provides a new, focused identity for the Sydney Heritage Fleet, itself an important icon of Sydney's maritime heritage.

- The Museum will be a place for visitors and the community to enjoy and understand the cultural importance of the work of the Fleet.
- It will celebrate the outstanding craftsmanship of Fleet volunteers, which has ensured the preservation and maintenance of the magnificent SHF vessels.

Meet the Team

Gary Inberg

The relocation of the Sydney Heritage Fleet to Berry's Bay and the facilitation of a Museum of Sydney Harbour provides a once in lifetime opportunity to provide Sydney with a tourist attraction in a location where maritime activities date back to the 1800's. I've been involved in managing government property around the Harbour for many years. The Sydney Heritage Fleet is unique in the world given the type and variety of vessels restored and maintained. Providing a permanent home for the Fleet at Berry's Bay will sustain its long-term future.

Howard Glenn:

We love the heritage of Sydney Harbour, but parts of the foreshore have tipped over from heritage into neglect. I'm lending my support voluntarily to the Museum project, because it's got the elements that I've supported through my time in government or industry: public and private investment combining to revitalise critical Harbour infrastructure and to provide access and great destinations to the public.

Lisa Chikarovski

I am passionate about delivering projects that benefit local communities and contribute to the rich history and heritage of Sydney. The Museum of Sydney Harbour will be a landmark project for the local area, driving local tourism and enhancing the recreation and amenity of Berry's Bay. My goal is to ensure the project can be delivered in line with the expectations of the local community, with minimal disruption and maximum benefit to residents and visitors alike.

Stephen Ryan

Throughout the world we have developed cultural attractions that unite communities, celebrating who they are and what makes their history special. The Museum of Sydney Harbour at Berrys Bay, incorporating the Sydney Heritage Fleet, showcases an acclaimed heritage collection on a spectacular site rich with indigenous and European history. It is a fantastic opportunity to create a meaningful and sustainable cultural destination for Sydney.

Alan Edenborough

The Museum of Sydney Harbour enhances the opportunity for Sydney Heritage Fleet's unique living maritime heritage perspective and social capital, built over five decades, to engage with a broader public; towards a sustainable future for both. I have long involvement with the Fleet, from salvaging James Craig to more recently as Relocation Project Director, and executive roles in the maritime museum sector both in Australia and internationally. The conjunction of SHF and the Museum in Berrys Bay is an unparalleled and viable community use for the site, enhancing cultural tourism and offering a unique encounter with the history of Sydney Harbour.

Process for community consultation

- Sydney Heritage Fleet is a community organisation, entirely sustained by individual and community support.
- We are committed to deep engagement with the community on our proposal for Berrys Bay, to ensure it is welcomed, and developed in ways that meet both our needs and those of the local community.

- We are aware of many consultation processes around the future use of Berrys Bay after the new tunnel project.
- We don't want to get lost in all these processes and look forward to working with you to bring to Berrys Bay a future of benefit to us all.

An aerial black and white photograph of Sydney Harbour. The Sydney Harbour Bridge is prominent on the right side, spanning across the water. The city of Sydney is visible in the background, with numerous buildings and streets. In the foreground, several large cargo ships are scattered across the water. The water is dark, and the surrounding land is densely populated with trees and buildings.

Thank you.
